READING, HIKING, LANGUAGE LEARNING

Reading

I'm an avid reader, particularly of non-fiction and personal development books. I've recently been focusing on reading in German to improve my language skills, such as reading Die 1%-Methode (Atomic Habits in German). I enjoy books that challenge my way of thinking and offer practical strategies for self-improvement. Reading in German has also helped me advance my language proficiency to a B1 level, combining learning with personal growth.

Hiking

I love spending time outdoors and hiking is one of my favorite ways to disconnect and recharge. It gives me a chance to explore nature and stay active while enjoying the calmness and beauty of the environment. I've had the opportunity to hike in various regions, and it's taught me the importance of perseverance, planning, and mindfulness. Hiking helps me find balance, especially when managing a busy academic life.

Language Learning

I've been actively learning German for a while now and currently hold a B1 level. My goal is to reach fluency, so I focus on integrating the language into my daily life through reading, conversation practice, and media consumption. In addition to German, I'm fluent in Turkish and Azerbaijani, and speak English at a C1 level. I find language learning to be a great way to connect with different cultures and broaden my perspective.
